Fernando Couto - O grande capitão. Entrou na prova como titular, mas não resistiria à revolução de Scolari, na sequência da derrota com a Grécia. A partir daí, Ricardo Carvalho mostrou ser dono incontestável da defesa portuguesa... e Couto só voltaria a ter (curto) espaço, a reforçar a defesa nos últimos minutos dos jogos com a Espanha e Holanda.

Figo - Sobre ele pesava a responsabilidade de conduzir a equipa portuguesa. Acusou também o peso da época esgotante que teve no Real Madrid, não conseguindo manter o ritmo nos 90 minutos. Reagiu mal às substituições, comportou-se como um "menino mimado" na conferência de imprensa antes do jogo com a Espanha; jogou - não de raiva, mas com prazer - com a Holanda, merecendo o troféu que o distinguiu como melhor jogador. De qualquer forma, decisivo na solidez da equipa portuguesa, formando um meio-campo de luxo com Costinha, Deco, Maniche e Cristiano Ronaldo.

França - Uma equipa nos limites. A sua solidez competitiva, a qualidade técnica dos seus executantes, davam sempre a ideia de que, a qualquer momento,

9 Month Check Up - Interesting

Nate had his 9 month check up yesterday. It was interesting. First off, we had to wait in the drs office for over an hour before we were seen. Seriously, kids are NOT that patient. Nate was very very good, considering.

We finally saw the dr, and Nate wasn't impressed. He immediately looked like he was going to start crying when he saw her.

He didn't cry, but looked like he was on high alert the whole time. We talked to her about the problems we have been having at meal times. IE: WILL NOT EAT. Nates newest thing is just to spit pretty much every ounce of food you try to feed him, out at you. He has pretty much become a human food sprinkler. ICK!

She said that kids go through stages like this, albeit, normally at later ages.

This is where it gets crazy. During this conversation, the big A word was brought up. AUTISM. Wait, WHAT?!

Tony still just says what the fuck she was talking about. The contents

How much new information is created each year? Newly created information is stored in four physical media — print, film, magnetic and optical — and seen or heard in four information flows through electronic channels — telephone, radio and TV, and the Internet. This study of information storage and flows analyzes the year 2002 in order to estimate the annual size of the stock of new information recorded in storage media, and heard or seen each year in information flows. Where reliable data was available we have compared the 2002 findings to those of our 2000 study (which used 1999 data) in order to describe a few trends in the growth rate of information.

1. Print, film, magnetic, and optical storage media produced about 5 exabytes of new information in 2002. Ninety-two percent of the new information was stored on magnetic media, mostly in hard disks.

- How big is five exabytes? If digitized with full formatting, the seventeen million books in the Library of Congress contain about 136 terabytes of information; five exabytes of information is equivalent in size to the information contained in 37,000 new libraries the size of the Library of Congress book collections.
- Hard disks store most new information. Ninety-two percent of new information is stored on magnetic media, primarily hard disks. Film represents 7% of the total, paper 0.01%, and optical media 0.002%.
- The United States produces about 40% of the world's new stored information, including 33% of the world's new printed information, 30% of the world's new film titles, 40% of the world's information stored on optical media, and about 50% of the information stored on magnetic media.
- How much new information per person? According to the Population Reference Bureau, the world population is 6.3 billion, thus almost 800 MB of recorded information is produced per person each year. It would take about 30 feet of books to store the equivalent of 800 MB of information on paper.

American Civil War Sesquicentennial Traveling Educational Exposition

The American Civil War Sesquicentennial Traveling Educational Exposition is designed to celebrate & educate the 150th Anniversary of the events that lead to the War of the Rebellion (Northern), the War of Northern Aggression (Southern) into Reconstruction.

The ACW was fought for many reasons and under many names. We look to these next six years to breakdown those reasons and help everyone learn from the mistakes & lessons of the past.

*George Santanyana (b.1863 d.1952),
Spanish born American Philosopher

Monthly Member Teleconferences

Monthly member teleconferences are restricted to Charter, Platinum, Premier, and Associate members of the Center for Health Transformation. Featured Speakers include founder Newt Gingrich, CHT Project Directors, CHT Members, and leaders in both the public and private sector.

Our conference calls give our members an opportunity to hear a brief presentation or overview of timely topics in health and healthcare and to participate in a Q&A session with the featured speaker. These calls typically are scheduled for months in which we are not hosting a Member Meeting or when a pressing or vital topic or event relating to health and healthcare is at hand.

Some of our past Conference Calls have covered topics such as: Alzheimer's Disease, diabetes, achieving 100% insurance coverage, state transformation, value-driven healthcare, how the elections will affect health in America, and pandemic influenza planning. Members can listen to previous monthly teleconferences by going to our multi-media page.

End of Term 2012

End of Term 2012

The End of Term project has resumed for an End of Term 2012-2013 archive, and we need help to identify websites for collection, particularly those that might be most at-risk of change or deletion at the end of the presidential term. If you or your organization would like to participate by nominating important websites for capture to help us build this archive, please use our Nomination tool. Read more about the project here.

Who can help:

We're looking for government document experts, subject experts, and any others interested in helping identify U.S. Federal Government websites for collection and preservation.

What you can do:

Nominations of any U.S. Federal Government domains are welcome. There are a few topic areas that we particularly need assistance identifying, including but not limited to:

- Judicial Branch websites
- Important content or subdomains on very large websites (such as NASA.gov) that might be related to current Presidential policies
- Government content on non-government domains (.com, .edu, etc.)

Volunteer nominators will be asked to contribute as much time and effort as they are able, whether it be a nomination of 1 website or 500 websites. Nominators will be given access to the Nomination Tool, which is an easy-to-use tool created by the University of North Texas to help with collaborative selection projects. Volunteers are asked to submit some simple metadata about the site that they are nominating. To participate, please use our Nomination tool.

Project Timeframe

2012

- January 2012: Project team will begin accepting early nominations of priority websites via the Nomination Tool.

What is the CyberCemetery?

The CyberCemetery is an archive of government websites that have ceased operation (usually websites of defunct government agencies and commissions that have issued a final report). This collection features a variety of topics indicative of the broad nature of government information. In particular, this collection features websites that cover topics supporting the university's curriculum and particular program strengths.

Who created and maintains the CyberCemetery?

The University of North Texas Libraries and the U.S. Government Printing Office, as part of the Federal Depository Library Program, created a partnership to provide permanent public access to the Web sites and publications of defunct U.S. government agencies and commissions. This collection was named the "CyberCemetery" by early users of the site.

This collection supports the mission of the UNT Libraries by acquiring, preserving, and providing access to recorded knowledge in the form of government websites.
